Privacy Institute classes will be held at the Lee Room, Wishcamper Center, on Bedford Street except Cross Border Data Transfer, to be held at IAPP Headquarters in Portsmouth, NH.

Application to courses in the Summer Session is open to: (1) law students who have completed their first year and are in good standing at an ABA approved law school, and (2) special students not currently enrolled in an ABA approved law school program.

APPLICATION PROCEDURES

All Applicants:
Official registration for summer session will begin on February 8 and end on February 12 at 3:00 p.m., when the lottery will take place for Mediation Practicum and Trial Practice. All applicants must complete the attached registration form, along with any other required documents.

Enrollment in Trial Practice is limited to 12 students. Enrollment in Mediation Practicum is limited to 6 students. Places in these classes will be allocated based on a lottery to be held on Friday afternoon at 3:00, February 12, which will include a ranked waiting list. Please make sure you register by 3:00 p.m. on February 12 to be included in the lottery. Those who register after this deadline will be added to the waiting list if necessary on a first-come, first-served basis. Note that students will not be permitted to register unless their current accounts are clear at the Student Billing Office.
The Law School reserves the right to cancel any course because of insufficient enrollment.

Law Students at Other Law Schools:
Students currently enrolled at other ABA approved law schools must submit with their registration form a letter from the Dean of their law school certifying that the applicant is in good standing and has completed or is in the process of completing the first year of law study. Acceptance of a student in the process of completing the first year of law study is conditional on the successful completion of the first year.

Special Students:
Applicants not currently enrolled in an ABA approved law school program may enroll in Summer Session classes with the permission of the Associate Dean and instructor. Special students should submit a statement summarizing their background and setting forth their reasons for wishing to enroll in the Summer Session. Special students will be admitted only on a space available basis. Credits obtained by a special student in the Summer Session may not be applied toward a J.D. degree at this law school if the student becomes a candidate for that degree in the future.
CREDIT

A student must complete 6 semesters in residence at the University of Maine School of Law on a full-time basis. Law Students interested in early graduation should note that two summer sessions at the Law School, each of which includes the successful completion of at least five credit hours, can be combined to meet the residence requirement for one semester. Enrollment for six credit hours is necessary to be eligible for financial aid. A student may enroll for no more than 8 credit hours in a summer session.

Financial Aid:

Financial Aid in the form of Stafford Loans and Summer Work-Study eligibility is available to students with demonstrated financial need who are enrolled in Summer Session for at least six (6) credit hours.
Evidence | Law 644 | Instructor: Jon Chapman
3 credit hours
Topics considered in this course are: Objections and preserving the record; foundations; relevancy and policy-based restrictions on the admission of relevant evidence; the hearsay rule and its exceptions and exemptions; character evidence; cross-examination and methods of impeachment; privileges; opinion testimony and expert witnesses; and the best evidence rule. This course is a pre- or co-requisite for Trial Practice, and prerequisite for General Practice Clinic, Juvenile Justice Clinic, Prisoner Assistance Clinic, Trial Advocacy, and some Externship placements.

Legislation & Administration | LAW 784 | Instructor: Jane Earley
3 credit hours
This course will consider how legislatures create law, how administrative agencies and courts interpret statutes and regulations to develop, implement, and change law, and how courts review administrative actions. It will explore the limits of the regulatory process, the extent of Presidential authority and the limits of Congressional control. Finally, it will examine how U.S. administrative law functions in the context of international agreements. Successful completion of Legislation & Administration is required for graduation.

Mediation Practicum | Law 655 | Instructor: Diane Kenty
3 credit hours
Mediation Practicum provides students with the opportunity to learn and practice mediation skills. Mediation is an important form of dispute resolution in Maine and many other jurisdictions both in legal and non-legal disputes. In the Mediation Practicum, students learn basic skills of mediating and go to the courthouse to mediate Small Claims cases in Maine District Court (with supervision). In class meetings, students also analyze their mediation experiences and discuss best practices and ethical challenges for mediators.

Professional Responsibility | Law 632 | Instructor: Michael Nelson
3 credit hours
This course examines the role of the legal profession in defining, promulgating, and enforcing standards of professional conduct. Selected problems illustrative of the responsibilities of members of the legal profession are examined. This course is a prerequisite for General Practice Clinic, Juvenile Justice Clinic, and Prisoner Assistance Clinic. It is a pre-or co-requisite for and some Externship placements. Successful completion of Professional Responsibility is required for graduation.

Trial Practice | LAW 650 | Instructor: John A. MacArdle, III, Esq.
3 Credit Hours
This course offers the opportunity to develop the basic skills necessary to conduct a trial, including developing a case theory and theme, opening statements, direct and cross-examinations of witnesses, use of exhibits, evidentiary objections, and closing arguments. The study of trial techniques is primarily through use of simulations, role-playing, demonstrations, and individual evaluation and feedback. Evidence (Law 644) is a co- or pre-requisite for Trial Practice. Trial Practice is a pre-requisite for General Practice Clinic, Juvenile Justice Clinic, Prisoner Assistance Clinic, Trial Team, and some externship placements. Trial Practice is limited to twelve students in the summer. Trial Practice satisfies the Professional Skills requirement.
Jonathan Chapman is Chief of the Criminal Division in the Office of the United States Attorney for the District of Maine. Before becoming a federal prosecutor in 1989, Jon worked for seven years as a state prosecutor in the Cumberland County District Attorney’s Office and the Maine Attorney General’s Office. As a federal prosecutor, Jon has tried a wide variety of criminal cases, particularly in the area of drug trafficking, firearm crimes and violent crimes. As Chief of the Criminal Division in the U.S. Attorney’s Office Jon oversees the prosecution of all federal criminal cases in Maine and supervises the trial practice of the prosecutors in the office. He holds a JD from the University of New Hampshire and a BA from the University of Maine.

Jane Earley is a graduate of Maine Law who has practiced law in the Washington, D.C. area in a variety of legal and administrative positions, ranging from administrative litigation to international trade and environmental dispute settlement. Most recently she served as Director of Health Technologies in the International Trade Administration, part of the U.S. Department of Commerce. Previously she worked with the Office of the U.S. Trade Representative, and with NOAA. She has served as a consultant, founding and managing her own firm focused on new technologies and standards in international trade policy. She also directs Maine Law’s Semester in Practice – Washington, D.C. Program which allows selected students to spend an entire semester working with a federal agency in Washington, D.C.

Diane E. Kenty is director of the Office of Court Alternative Dispute Resolution in the Maine Administrative Office of the Courts, where she administers and serves on the statewide mediation rosters for family matters, small claims, eviction, land use/environmental disputes and Superior Court civil litigation, as well as Superior Court rosters for early neutral evaluation and arbitration of civil cases. She also oversees Maine’s statewide Foreclosure Diversion Program. Initially trained as a mediator by Professor Frank Sander, Linda Singer, and Michael Lewis at the Harvard Program of Instruction for Lawyers in 1991, she has mediated hundreds of disputes. She formerly served on the mediation rosters of the U.S. District Court for the District of Massachusetts and the Middlesex Multi-Door Courthouse in Cambridge, MA, as well as the Commercial Arbitration Panel of the American Arbitration Association. Diane is active in the field of conflict resolution nationally and serves on the boards of directors of the Policy Consensus Initiative (PCI) and the affiliated National Policy Consensus Center, as well as the Association for Conflict Resolution and the Maine Association of Mediators. Previously in private practice as an attorney in Boston, Diane holds an A.B. from Oberlin College, M.Div. from Union Theological Seminary, and J.D. from Georgetown University Law Center. She is the author of “Public Collaboration in Maine: When and Why It Works,” 19 Maine Policy Review 2 (Summer/Fall 2010). Diane teaches the ADR survey course and Mediation Practicum as adjunct faculty. In addition to teaching law students, she teaches negotiation and mediation at the University of Southern Maine Center for Business and Professional Education.

Michael Nelson has been a commercial litigator and trial lawyer with Jensen Baird Gardner & Henry for more than thirty years. He also chairs the Firm’s litigation department and serves as its ethics counsel. He previously chaired the Maine Supreme Judicial Court’s Advisory Committee on the Rules of Professional Responsibility, and currently is Adjunct Professor of Professional Responsibility and Legal Ethics at the University of Maine School of Law. He frequently lectures on issues of professional responsibility and legal ethics. Before joining Jensen Baird, Mike clerked for the Honorable John H. Pratt, United States District Court Judge for the District of Columbia. He subsequently was a prosecutor with the United States Securities and Exchange Commission in Washington, D.C., until he came to Maine and joined Jensen Baird in 1980. Since that time, he has litigated and tried a wide range of commercial and business cases including those involving issues of antitrust, business torts, breach of contract, corporate disputes, defamation, employment discrimination, environmental issues, banking and lender liability issues, professional malpractice, and securities. Mike regularly acts as local counsel in federal court, assisting major out of state firms including Davis Polk & Wardwell, Morrison Foerster and DLA Piper.

John A. McArdle, III joined Kelly, Remmel & Zimmerman in 2007. John graduated from the University of Massachusetts, Boston, in 1984 magna cum laude and Suffolk University Law School in 1987 where he was the Executive Editor of the Law Review. John then practiced at the firm of Sugarman & Sugarman in Boston before returning to Maine in 1989 as a senior associate in a prominent trial practice firm and then opening his own practice. For twenty eight years John has focused his practice on complex personal injury and professional liability in Maine and Massachusetts. John has considerable experience in technical medical and catastrophic injury cases. John is a graduate of Gerry Spence’s Trial Lawyer’s College and a member of the Million Dollar Advocate’s Forum. John is a member of the Maine Bar Association and Massachusetts Bar Association. For over twenty years John served on the Board of the Maine Trial Lawyers Association and is the past President of the organization. John is admitted to practice in all courts of the State of Maine and the State of Massachusetts, the United States Court of Appeals for the First Circuit, and the United States Supreme Court.

All classes will be held at the Wishcamper Center on Bedford Street except Cross Border Data Transfer, to be held at IAPP Headquarters in Portsmouth, NH.

Students participating in the Summer Institute are eligible for the IAPP Privacy Pathways program, which allows students to gain IAPP student membership, receive books and online training materials, and sit for the CIPP/US exam for only $120 (valued at $1,700).

May 16-May 19:  LAW 725: Global Privacy Law
Prof. Omer Tene
2 credits (graded)
Lee Room, Wishcamper Center, USM

Personal data has become the raw material for business models in industries ranging from online advertising, social networking, cloud computing, health and financial services. Governments, too, rely on personal data for purposes such as national security and law enforcement, urban planning and traffic control, public health and education. Emerging technologies greatly enhance data collection, storage and analysis. In this context, privacy laws strain to continue to protect individual rights. This course will place privacy within a social and legal context and will investigate the complex mesh of legal structures and institutions that govern privacy at state, national and international levels. Students will be taught how to critically analyze privacy problems and make observations about sources of law and their interpretation, with an emphasis on the global nature of data. Students will be provided with the technological details needed to explore information security and management issues in domestic and international contexts. The final grade will be based on class participation, attendance and an exam.

May 23-24:  LAW 659: Cross-Border Data Flows
Prof. Caitlin Fennessy
1 credit (pass/fail)
IAPP, Portsmouth, New Hampshire

Today’s economy is dependent on businesses’ ability to use and transfer personal data around the world to facilitate global operations. At the same time, businesses must comply with a myriad of foreign data protection laws and increasingly face legal challenges to their ability to move data. This course will provide an overview of foreign data protection laws as well as evolving international privacy landscape. Course participants will discuss how businesses and governments are working to develop mechanisms to facilitate compliance, cross-border data protection and trade and consider their effectiveness.
May 25-26: LAW 659: Health Care Privacy & Security
Prof. Kirk Nahra
1 credit (pass/fail)
Lee Room, Wishcamper Center, USM

One of the most heavily regulated areas of information privacy law is in the health care industry, where privacy and data security issues are of paramount importance. This course explores the key data privacy and security issues facing health care enterprises and their vendors (and the broad variety of other entities that use and disclose health care information), including compliance with HIPAA and a broad variety of other state and federal privacy and data security laws applicable to healthcare data and the healthcare industry. We will discuss how health care privacy and data security law is evolving, what the key policy issues are for this debate and will provide practical advice on evaluating and applying law, regulations and best practices to the creation, use and disclosure of health care data.

May 31-June 1 LAW 659: Information Security and Data Breach Response
Prof. Ken Mortensen
1 credit (pass/fail)
Lee Room, Wishcamper Center, USM

A major component of an effective information privacy regime is sound information security. Privacy attorneys today need to be well versed in the technology, processes, and governance regimes used to protect information from leakage, unauthorized disclosure, and cyber attack. This course will introduce students to the vocabulary, concepts and strategies for developing an information security regime, including creating incident response plans and other key tools. It will elaborate on the role of forensics in cyber security and guide students through their duties, and legal and ethical obligations, as outside (or in house) counsel managing a data breach. Finally, the course will address the role of law enforcement in post-breach investigations and help students think about how to work on multi-disciplinary teams to manage an information privacy (and security) crisis.

June 2-3 LAW 659: Privacy in the Workplace
Prof. Heather Egan Sussman
1 credit (pass/fail)
Lee Room, Wishcamper Center, USM

This course explores the extent to which employees have a right to privacy in the workplace. It covers an employer’s legal obligations from recruiting, to hiring, terminating and post-termination. What rights to employers have to monitor employees’ email, phone calls, social media use, and even presence in the office? What obligations do counsel have to train employees on privacy as a component of the employees’ jobs? How can employment lawyers help other privacy and security teams with data minimization, authorization and confidentiality systems? How far may employers go in disclosing employee information to government investigations? What is the role of international data protection laws on employee privacy? These and many more issues will be discussed in a pragmatic approach to how lawyers manage privacy in the workplace.
Privacy Pathways Program with the IAPP:
Maine Law was the first school to develop a relationship with the International Association of Privacy Professionals, which partners with law schools in what are now called “Privacy Pathways” programs to offer significant opportunities for law students to gain knowledge, credentials, and connections in the world of information privacy.

Among the opportunities available to students participating in the Information Privacy Summer Institute are:
- Student membership in the IAPP for one year for $50;
- free access to online training and books to prepare for the Certified Information Privacy Professionals (CIPP) exam; and
- an opportunity to take the CIPP exam for only $90.
This package has a value of approximately $1,700.

In addition, Maine Law students are exclusively eligible for a semester-long externship at the IAPP, which often involves travel to the IAPP’s major privacy events such as the Global Privacy Summit in DC, or Privacy Security Risk (PSR) in the fall. These events provide unprecedented networking opportunities for students.
Professors

Caitlin Fennessy:
Prof. Fennessy is a senior policy advisor with the Data Flows and Privacy Team at the U.S. International Trade Administration (ITA), where she focuses on privacy policy and transborder data flow issues as they impact trade. Prof. Fennessy leads ITA’s work on European privacy issues, with a focus on the U.S.-EU Safe Harbor Framework, and represents ITA as Vice Chair of the APEC Data Privacy Subgroup. Prof. Fennessy has spoken widely on issues of transborder data flows, including teaching a course with the Information Privacy Summer Institute at Maine Law in 2015. Prior to joining ITA, Caitlin worked in the National Security Division of the Office of Management and Budget and with the U.S. Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Caitlin has a master’s degree in public affairs from Princeton University and a bachelor’s degree in social policy from Northwestern University.

Ken Mortensen:
Prof. Mortensen is Senior Managing Director of Privacy at PwC in its Boston office where clients appreciate his deep expertise in knowledge governance, cyber resilience, privacy, and information security risk management. Prof. Mortensen has been a long-time adjunct professor at Maine Law including teaching in the Information Privacy Summer Institute for many years. He also has served as an adjunct professor at Boston University School of Law. Prior to joining PwC, Prof. Mortensen served as the first Chief Privacy Officer for CVS Health, a Fortune 12 healthcare company, where he was also Assistant General Counsel. Prof. Mortensen’s career has involved several years of public service, including as the Chief Privacy and Civil Liberties Officer of the US Department of Justice, as Deputy Chief Privacy Officer for the US Department of Homeland Security, and as Special Counsel for Cyber and Privacy for the Pennsylvania Office of the Attorney General. He is a long-time member of the International Association of Privacy Professional, where he also served on the Board of Directors.

Kirk Nahra:
Prof. Nahra is a partner at Wiley Rein in Washington, DC, where he specializes in privacy and information security litigation and counseling, along with a variety of health care, insurance fraud, and compliance issues. He assists companies in a wide range of industries in analyzing and implementing the requirements of privacy and security laws across the country and internationally. He also works with insurers and health care industry participants in developing compliance programs and defending against government investigations into their practices. A long-time member of the Board of Directors of the International Association of Privacy Professionals (IAPP), he is the editor of The Privacy Advisor, the monthly newsletter of the IAPP. He was named as the Co-Chair of the Confidentiality, Privacy, and Security Workgroup, a panel of government and private sector privacy and security experts advising the American Health Information Community (AHIC) on privacy and security issues arising from health information technology.

Heather Egan Sussman:
Prof. Egan Sussman is a privacy and data security partner based in Ropes & Gray’s Boston office. Her practice focuses on privacy, information security, and consumer protection. She routinely guides clients through the existing patchwork of US federal and state privacy laws, state breach notification laws, state information security laws, as well as existing self-regulatory frameworks, including those covering online advertising and payment card processing. She draws on her foundation as an employment lawyer when conducting internal investigations stemming from data incidents and when drafting comprehensive privacy and security programs for businesses operating across multiple jurisdictions and industry lines. She is a member of the International Association of Privacy Professionals and co-chair of the IAPP’s Boston KnowledgeNet group.
Omer Tene: Prof. Tene is Vice President of Research and Education at the IAPP, administering the IAPP Westin Research Center and Fellowship Program. His long career in history and academia includes serving as a tenured member of the faculty at the College of Management School of Law, Tel Aviv, Israel, where he was also the Vice Dean. He maintains an active privacy practice and scholarship agenda as a consultant to governments, regulatory agencies and businesses on privacy, cybersecurity and data management, an Affiliate Scholar at the Stanford Center for Internet and Society; and a Senior Fellow at the Future of Privacy Forum. Prof. Tene has been teaching in the Information Privacy Summer Institute each year since its inception.
