Admission to courses in the Summer Session is open to: (1) law students who have completed their first year and are in good standing at an ABA approved law school, and (2) special students not currently enrolled in an ABA approved law school program.

You will not have to have a registration approval form signed by your advisor to register for summer courses. Although, we do encourage all students to check in with their advisor for guidance in their selection.

APPLICATION PROCEDURES

All Applicants:
Official registration for summer session will begin on February 13 and end on February 17 at 3:00 p.m., when the lottery will take place for International Sports Law. All applicants must complete the attached registration form, along with any other required documents.

Enrollment in International Sports Law is limited to 20 students. Places in this class will be allocated based on a lottery to be held on Friday afternoon at 3:00, February 17, which will include a ranked waiting list. Please make sure you register by 3:00 p.m. on February 17 to be included in the lottery. Those who register after this deadline will be added to the waiting list if necessary on a first-come, first-serve basis. Note that students will not be permitted to register unless their current accounts are clear at the Student Billing Office. The Law School reserves the right to cancel any course because of insufficient enrollment.

Law Students at Other Law Schools:
Students currently enrolled at other ABA approved law schools must submit with their registration form a letter from the Dean of their law school certifying that the applicant is in good standing and has completed or is in the process of completing the first year of law study. Acceptance of a student in the process of completing the first year of law study is conditional on the successful completion of the first year.

Special Students:
Applicants not currently enrolled in an ABA approved law school program may enroll in Summer Session classes with the permission of the Associate Dean and instructor. Special students should submit a statement summarizing their background and setting forth their reasons for wishing to enroll in the Summer Session. Special students will be admitted only on a space available basis. Credits obtained by a special student in the Summer Session may not be applied toward a J.D. degree at this law school if the student becomes a candidate for that degree in the future.

CREDIT

The summer session is approximately one-half of a full semester. Therefore, enrollment for six credit hours is necessary to be eligible for financial aid: and a student may enroll for no more than 8 credit hours.

RESIDENCY RULE

A student must complete 6 semesters in residence at the University of Maine School of Law on a full-time basis. Law students interested in early graduation should note that two summer sessions at the Law School, each of which includes the successful completion of at least five credit hours, can be combined to meet the residence requirement for one semester. See the student handbook for details.

EXAMINATIONS

Except for the Privacy Institute, the final examinations in all courses with examinations will take place July 18 – July 19.

Evidence | Law 644 | Instructor: Jon Chapman
3 credit hours
Topics considered in this course are: Objections and preserving the record; foundations; relevancy and policy-based restrictions on the admission of relevant evidence; the hearsay rule and its exceptions and exemptions; character evidence; cross-examination and methods of impeachment; privileges; opinion testimony and expert witnesses; and the best evidence rule. This course is a pre- or co-requisite for Trial Practice, and prerequisite for General Practice Clinic, Juvenile Justice Clinic, Prisoner Assistance Clinic, Trial Advocacy, and some Externship placements.

International Sports Law | Law 602 | Instructor: Paul Greene
2 credit hours
The World Anti-Doping Code is an international sports law that spans the globe. A well-developed body of “lex sportiva” or “sports law” has developed around its interpretation and implementation over the past decade. This class will focus on the Code and the sports arbitral bodies that oversee athletic disputes arising from it including the “Supreme Court for Sports”, the Court of Arbitration for Sport in Lausanne, Switzerland. The course will culminate in a “real life” arbitration where each student will advocate both orally and in writing on behalf of a client.

Professional Responsibility | Law 632 | Instructor: Aria Eee
3 credit hours
This course examines the role of the legal profession in defining, promulgating, and enforcing standards of professional conduct. Selected problems illustrative of the responsibilities of members of the legal profession are examined. This course is a prerequisite for General Practice Clinic, Juvenile Justice Clinic, and Prisoner Assistance Clinic. It is a pre-or co-requisite for some Externship placements. Successful completion of Professional Responsibility is required for graduation.

Jonathan Chapman is Chief of the Criminal Division in the Office of the United States Attorney for the District of Maine. Before becoming a federal prosecutor in 1989, Jon worked for seven years as a state prosecutor in the Cumberland County District Attorney’s Office and the Maine Attorney General’s Office. As a federal prosecutor, Jon has tried a wide variety of criminal cases, particularly in the area of drug trafficking, firearm crimes and violent crimes. As Chief of the Criminal Division in the U.S. Attorney’s Office Jon oversees the prosecution of all federal criminal cases in Maine and supervises the trial practice of the prosecutors in the office. He holds a JD from the University of New Hampshire and a BA from the University of Maine.

Aria Eee serves as Deputy Bar Counsel to the Maine Board of Bar Overseers. In that position, her responsibilities include advising lawyers on ethics concerns, presenting continuing legal education programs, and investigating and prosecuting lawyer discipline cases. A 1994 Maine Law graduate, Aria began her legal career as a NAPIL fellow and then as counsel for the Passamaquoddy Tribe's Indian Housing Authority. She also had a solo practice in Washington County before joining the Maine Attorney General’s office where she litigated numerous cases involving at risk children and their families. Aria is a member of the Edward T. Gignoux Inn of Court, Maine State Bar Association, the National Organization of Bar Counsel and various county bar associations within Maine.

Paul J. Greene, the Founder of Global Sports Advocates, LLC, is recognized by Chambers USA and Super Lawyers as one of America’s leading sports lawyers. Paul has handled sports law matters around the world, including numerous hearings before the international Court of Arbitration for Sport in Lausanne, Switzerland known as the “Supreme Court for Sports Law.” Paul graduated from Brandeis University (B.A., 1993), Syracuse University (M.A.), and University of Maine School of Law (cum laude, Managing Editor, Maine Law Review, Interned for the Honorable Kermit Lipez, United States Court of Appeals for the First Circuit). Paul is a member of the Immigration Legal Advocacy Project, a group committed to protecting the rights of immigrants by providing pro bono representation in asylum matters. He has taught ‘Law and Sports’ in the past at the University of Maine School of Law and serves on the school’s Alumni Association Board of Directors. Paul also teaches ‘Legal Ethics in Business’ at the University of Southern Maine’s Business School. He has taught Sports Law previously, and has represented athletes in many high-profile matters, most recently in connection with doping allegations against Russian athlete Darya Klishina that were shown to be faulty. He is a well-known speaker and author in the area of sports law both nationally and internationally.

Make up times may be scheduled on Tuesdays if necessary.
All Privacy Summer Institute classes will be held in the Wishcamper Center on Bedford Street (Muskie School of Public Service).
All classes will be held at the Wishcamper Center on Bedford Street.

Students participating in the Summer Institute are eligible for the IAPP Privacy Pathways program, which allows students to gain IAPP student membership, receive books and online training materials, and sit for the CIPP/US exam. Student membership is $50, and the exam is $90 for an online exam, free if taken in-house at the IAPP in Portsmouth, NH. This program is approved as part of the Certificate in Information Privacy Law. Students must attend all sessions of a class in order to receive credit for the class.

May 22-25, 2017  Law 725: Global Privacy Law
Prof. Omer Tene
2 credits (graded)
Lee Room, Wishcamper Center, USM

Personal data has become the raw material for business models in industries ranging from online advertising, social networking, cloud computing, health and financial services. Governments, too, rely on personal data for purposes such as national security and law enforcement, urban planning and traffic control, public health and education. Emerging technologies greatly enhance data collection, storage and analysis. In this context, privacy laws strain to continue to protect individual rights. This course will place privacy within a social and legal context and will investigate the complex mesh of legal structures and institutions that govern privacy at state, national and international levels. Students will be taught how to critically analyze privacy problems and make observations about sources of law and their interpretation, with an emphasis on the global nature of data. Students will be provided with the technological details needed to explore information security and management issues in domestic and international contexts. The final grade will be based on class participation, attendance and an exam.

May 30-31 LAW 659: Privacy in the Workplace
Prof. Heather Egan Sussman
1 credit (pass/fail)
Lee Room, Wishcamper Center, USM

This course explores the extent to which employees have a right to privacy in the workplace. It covers an employer’s legal obligations from recruiting, to hiring, terminating and post-termination. What rights to employers have to monitor employees’ email, phone calls, social media use, and even presence in the office? What obligations do counsel have to train employees on privacy as a component of the employees’ jobs? How can employment lawyers help other privacy and security teams with data minimization, authorization and confidentiality systems? How far may employers go in disclosing employee information to government investigations? What is the role of international data protection laws on employee privacy? These and many more issues will be discussed in a pragmatic approach to how lawyers manage privacy in the workplace.

June 1-2: LAW 659: Health Care Privacy & Security
Prof. Kirk Nahra
1 credit (pass/fail)
Lee Room, Wishcamper Center, USM
One of the most heavily regulated areas of information privacy law is in the health care industry, where privacy and data security issues are of paramount importance. This course explores the key data privacy and security issues facing health care enterprises and their vendors (and the broad variety of other entities that use and disclose health care information), including compliance with HIPAA and a broad variety of other state and federal privacy and data security laws applicable to healthcare data and the healthcare industry. We will discuss how health care privacy and data security law is evolving, what the key policy issues are for this debate and will provide practical advice on evaluating and applying law, regulations and best practices to the creation, use and disclosure of health care data.

June 5-8

LAW 659: Big Data Law & Policy
Prof. Dennis Hirsch
2 credits (graded)
Lee Room, Wishcamper Center, USM

Big data analytics is becoming integral to American society. Businesses use it to become more productive, schools to provide personalized education, health care providers to tailor treatments, and law enforcement agencies to predict crime, to name but a few of its many uses. But along with these benefits come risks. Big data analytics can invade privacy, perpetuate bias and undermine transparency and fairness. Federal and state lawmakers are currently developing laws and policies to enhance big data’s benefits while reducing its risks.

Businesses and other organizations seeking to navigate this new data reality, and the lawyers that advise them, need to understand what big data is, the benefits and risks that it creates and the evolving legal structure that governs it. This four-day course on Big Data Law and Policy will build that competency. Day 1 will introduce big data analytics, its benefits and its risks. Day 2 will examine both the existing laws that govern big data analytics (e.g. the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the Fair Information Practice Principles, federal anti-discrimination laws, the Privacy Act, the Fourth Amendment, and others), and the gaps in those laws. Day 3 will explore how law and policy are evolving to address the challenges and opportunities that big data analytics presents, including a discussion of social and professional ethics. Day 4 will bring the prior days’ learning together into a coherent framework that students will apply to a realistic big data analytics use case. Students will leave the course with a working understanding of what big data analytics is, the laws and policies that govern it, and how this legal structure is likely to evolve in the future.

The course is relevant to those who work in businesses, government bodies or other organizations that employ big data analytics, and to the attorneys and other counselors that advise them. It will employ lecture, discussion and skills-building exercises in the classroom. It will assign popular and academic articles, white papers, and primary source legal and policy documents as outside readings. It will evaluate students based on class participation and an in-class examination that will test the basic concepts articulated in the classroom and in the readings.
Professors

Dennis Hirsch:
Prof. Hirsch is Professor of Law and Director of the Program on Data and Governance at The Ohio State University Moritz College of Law. He also holds the title of Professor of Law at Capital University Law School.

In 2010, Professor Hirsch served as a Fulbright Senior Professor at the University of Amsterdam where he produced a leading study on collaborative Dutch data protection regulation. He is the Reporter for the Uniform Law Commission Drafting Committee on Employee and Student Online Privacy, the Chair of the American Association of Law Schools Section on Defamation and Privacy, and the Co-Organizer of the University of Amsterdam, Institute for Information Law, Summer Course on Privacy Law and Policy – a course in which he enjoys teaching each July.

A graduate of Columbia University and the Yale Law School, Professor Hirsch has served as Articles Editor for the Yale Law Journal, as Law Clerk to the Hon. John M. Walker, Jr. of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit, as an Associate at Sidley Austin LLP, and as Counsel to the Firm at Porter Wright Morris & Arthur LLP.

Kirk Nahra:
Prof. Nahra is a partner at Wiley Rein in Washington, DC, where he specializes in privacy and information security litigation and counseling, along with a variety of health care, insurance fraud, and compliance issues. He assists companies in a wide range of industries in analyzing and implementing the requirements of privacy and security laws across the country and internationally. He also works with insurers and health care industry participants in developing compliance programs and defending against government investigations into their practices. A long-time member of the Board of Directors of the International Association of Privacy Professionals (IAPP), he is the editor of The Privacy Advisor, the monthly newsletter of the IAPP. He was named as the Co-Chair of the Confidentiality, Privacy, and Security Workgroup, a panel of government and private sector privacy and security experts advising the American Health Information Community (AHIC) on privacy and security issues arising from health information technology.

Heather Egan Sussman:
Prof. Egan Sussman is a privacy and data security partner based in Ropes & Gray’s Boston office. Her practice focuses on privacy, information security, and consumer protection. She routinely guides clients through the existing patchwork of US federal and state privacy laws, state breach notification laws, state information security laws, as well as existing self-regulatory frameworks, including those covering online advertising and payment card processing. She draws on her foundation as an employment lawyer when conducting internal investigations stemming from data incidents and when drafting comprehensive privacy and security programs for businesses operating across multiple jurisdictions and industry lines. She is a member of the International Association of Privacy Professionals and co-chair of the IAPP’s Boston KnowledgeNet group.

Omer Tene:
Prof. Tene is Vice President of Research and Education at the IAPP, administering the IAPP Westin Research Center and Fellowship Program. His long career in history and academia includes serving as a tenured member of the faculty at the College of Management School of Law, Tel Aviv, Israel, where he was also the Vice Dean. He maintains an active privacy practice and scholarship agenda as a consultant to governments, regulatory agencies and businesses on privacy, cybersecurity and data management, an Affiliate Scholar at the Stanford Center for Internet and Society; and a Senior Fellow at the Future of Privacy Forum. Prof. Tene has been teaching in the Information Privacy Summer Institute each year since its inception.
